By using our website, you are consenting to our use of cookies and other tracking technology in accordance with this policy. If you do not agree to our use of cookies and other tracking technology in this way, you should alter your browser settings accordingly or should not use the Penleaf website. If you choose to disable the cookies we use, this could impact your user experience.

1. What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer or mobile device by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or to work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site.

See below for details on what information is collected by cookies and how we use that information. For more information about the kind of data we collect, please read our Privacy Policy.

2. How and why we use cookies

We use cookies to gain a better understanding of how visitors use our website. Cookies help us tailor to your personal needs, and to improve usability.

To enable this, some cookies are applied when you enter the website. We keep all the information collected from cookies in a format that means we cannot identify individuals. Our cookies located on your computer do not retain your name or your IP address.

3. Storage and sharing of cookies

Our cookies don't collect or store your personal information (for example, your name or address) so this information can't be used to identify who you are. The cookies simply enable us to see behaviour on the website to help us improve your experience. We do not share this data with third parties.

If you share our content with friends through social networks – such as Facebook and Twitter – you may be sent cookies from these websites. We don't control the setting of these cookies, so please check third-party websites for more information about their cookies and how to manage them.

4. The type of cookies we use

In general, the cookies which are placed on a Wix website may be categorised as essential cookies. However, considering the platform provides the ability to add multiple components, codes, third-party applications. . .and so on, our website may include other types of cookies which might require specific settings.

This table shows which cookies are placed on Wix sites, including the Penleaf website.

Important: Our site may use cookies that aren't listed in the table above. We aim to update this cookies policy as regularly as practicable to reflect any changes.

5. How you can change cookie settings

Please ensure that your computer setting reflects whether you are happy to accept cookies or not. You can set your browser to warn you before accepting cookies, or you can simply set it to refuse them. You should bear in mind that you may not have access to all the features of the website if you do so. Your browser's help section will advise how you can do this.

Remember that if you use different computers in different locations, you will need to ensure that each browser is adjusted to suit your cookie preferences.

For more information on the new legislation regarding cookies, see the Information Commissioners Office's website.

For useful information on cookies, visit AboutCookies.org. These will open in a new window, Please note that we can't be responsible for the content of external websites.

6. Legal Notice update

We reserve the right to make any changes and corrections to this policy. Please refer to this page from time to time to review these and view new additional information.

Monitoring

Director Jenny Hopkins is responsible for the revision and updating of this policy, and to ensure each new version is reviewed and approved by the Board. This to be undertaken annually in January.
